Starting point/trailhead:	Masarè Alleghe – Central square
Coordinates:	Geogr.46.3974562,12.0118957

Una facile camminata che non richiede particolare preparazione fisica. Ideale per famiglie. Parte dalla piazza centrale della località Masarè di Alleghe sulle rive del Lago di Alleghe, che si è formato nel 1711 a seguito dello slittamento di una parte del Monte Piz. Alla sua origine sono legate alcune curiose leggende. Per raggiungere la cascate oltrepassare impianti tennis di Pian Grant e continuare sulla destra. Lo scroscio dell'acqua annuncia ben presto La cascata Ru de Rialt.

Easy walk, suitable for families and people without particular physical preparation. It starts from the central square of Masarè di Alleghe, on the shore of the Lake of Alleghe whose origins date back to 1771 when a part of Monte Piz collapsed, creating a huge landslide that blocked the Cordevole river as it flowed down the valley creating a natural basin. A second minor landslide occurred in May of the same year collapsing in the newly formed lake and causing a wave that rose in the direction of the valley of the Zunaia stream. It reached the village of Alleghe destroying the rectory, part of the church and a number of houses. Legend has it that the church bell tower collapsed completely, swept away by the enormous wave and the bells disappeared into the deep of the lake. According to the legend, you can still catch a glimpse of the tip of the submerged bell tower on certain days when the waters are particularly clear.

The walk towards the waterfall climbs up to the tennis court at Piàn Grant, and then turns right onto a path that leads to a water intake. Here proceed to the left, always slightly uphill to a short flat stretch that leads to a wooden bridge, that should not be crossed; instead continue straight in the direction of the water jump. In a few minutes you reach the Ru de Rialt Waterfall, announced by the rush of water and preceded by the refreshing fall of the nebulized droplets. Return back to the same path. This excursion is ideal for children or people who want to approach the world of trekking in a simple way, or who just need a short and restoring break from the stress of the everyday life.
