Starting point/trailhead: Tambre – Brolio fractional square
Coordinates: Geogr. 46.1254681,12.4164346

Il percorso parte dalla piazza della frazione di Brolio, prosegue lungo un vecchio sentiero, che costeggia l’abitato di Pala abbandonato dopo l’alluvione del 1966, in direzione Valdenogher, per raggiungere la Casa dell’Alchimista, spettacolare casa del XVI secolo in stile veneziano. Secondo la tradizione in questo edificio aveva trovato rifugio, grazie all’intervento della Repubblica di Venezia, un nobile condannato a morte ad Alessandria d’Egitto per le pratiche alchemiche. La Casa Museo è dedicata a questa misteriosa pratica.

Leaving from the square of Tambre the actual trail starts in Brolio and from the fractional square you take the old dirt road to Valdenogher. Leaving on your left the fountain of Pala, village abandoned after the 1966 flood, you get to the fork in the road leading to Benedet, another abandoned village, you continue going down until you get to Benedet. Through a small lawn on the left you enter where there once was nothing, in a wild forest. The last ascending bit will get you to Valdenogher, at close distance to the spectacular home of the sixteenth century, where the fascinating world of Alchemy can be discovered. Legend has it that a nobleman condemned to death in Alexandria, Egypt for alchemical practices fled from there and took refuge, thanks to the intervention of the Republic of Venice in this house. has an unusual façade, embellished with a stone low relief decoration, interpreted as symbols related to alchemy. Selected objects, concepts, and alchemical insights of the exhibition are sure to arouse the curiosity of the visitor. Domestic spaces are populated by books, reproductions of images of alembics (distilling vessels) and videos that tell the story of the practice of Alchemy. Your walk back can be done on the normal road for about 500 m until the deviation on the left will get you back on the road you came from. The route is 5 km long and with a vertical drop of about 200 m.
